

W2 vs. 1099

Having the right resources available on demand is necessary to the success of complex technology initiatives. So, which technicians should you use for your next project?

You have complete control of their schedule

Work more efficiently since they bear overtime costs

Fixed cost asset so you know exactly how much you'll spend

Lower overhead costs since you don't have to pay for gear, training, travel, etc.

Company loyalty since they only work for you

Easily grow and shrink your workforce to meet demand

Can send them around the country as needed to cover projects

If there are issues after installation local techs can provide customer support

Consistent delivery since you have the same techs going to every site

Quickly hire technicians who are already experts in an area
